1. Introduction

1.1 What is a 'cookie'?

'Cookies' are small data files, used as unique identifiers. Each cookie is unique to your web browser. A cookie contains anonymous information and is sent from the server of the website you are viewing to your computer or mobile phone. It will be stored on your device and only that server will be able to retrieve or read the contents of that cookie. Sent cookies may be sent back to the website's servers with updated data as you browse the website.

Cookies may be set by the website you are visiting ('first party cookies') or they may be set by organization which are not the owner of the website you are viewing ('third party cookies'). For example, they may be set by other websites which run content on the page you are viewing or by a third party analytics company. The website you are visiting may also contain content embedded from other website and these sites may also set their own cookies. A website might use a third party advertising network to deliver targeted advertising. These cookies may also be able to track your browsing across different sites.

There are two types of cookie, described below.

Session cookies

Session cookies are stored only temporarily during a browsing session and are deleted from your device when the browser is closed.

Persistent cookies

This type of cookie is saved on your computer for a fixed period (usually a year or longer) and is not deleted when the browser is closed. Persistent cookies are used to identify you from one browsing session to the next, for example, to store your preferences, so that they are remembered for the next visit.

2. How does Wizz Tours use cookies?

If we did not use cookies, our website would think that you are a new visitor every time you move to a new page on our website – for example, when you enter your login details and move to another page, it won't recognize you and it won't be able to keep you logged in. We also use cookies to enable the advertisers to target their advertising or marketing messages based for example, on your location and/or browsing habits.

We need to use all three categories of cookies (strictly necessary, functionality and performance cookies) to maintain our website's effectiveness and to provide you with a user friendly website. Therefore, these cookies cannot be disabled independently and by continuing browsing on our website and using our online services you agree that we may place these cookies on your device.

Our website also uses online behavioural advertising cookies to enable Wizz Tours to tailor advertising and make it more relevant to you, based on the areas you look at on our website and your IP address' geo-location. These cookies are placed by third party advertising networks with our permission.
